Tower Nears Completion; City-State Battle Goes On

In a week filled with top news stories, a 407 foot structure on the University of Omaha campus has gleaned a considerable share of the news coverage in the city . . . as well as some statewide attention.

It's been a long, bumpy road for the ETV, Channel 26 tower.

The trouble began about two weeks ago when the tower was "misplaced" for a day due to a mixup in delivery.

Then, all went relatively well for a time . . . until last Thursday. At that time ETV officials were informed that a building permit should have been taken out and that inspections of the tower should have been made. The first inspection should have taken place as soon as the footings were in.

By Monday, nothing had been done . . . no attempt had been made to obtain a permit. Channel 26 General Manager Paul Borge said it is the state's responsibility to handle the permit and inspections end of the project. Jack McBride, executive secretary of the State ETV Commission, could not be reached for comment.

Chief Engineer Bill Ramsey consulted the State Attorney General's office and was told that a permit was not needed.

City officials disagreed. A meeting was called for Wednesday to determine the course of action to be taken . . . halting construction or levying a fine being two of the possibilities.

Wednesday morning the meeting was held. Francis Lynch, speaking for Mayor Sorenson, delivered a verdict that the tower was illegally constructed, but nothing would be done about it.

Later Wednesday more trouble developed when Safety Director Lynch declared the tower has not cleared city height restrictions. Joseph Rogers, chief of the city's Permit and Inspection Division, said he could not grant the permit now even if an application was received because the tower is too high.

"The tower is in an area which allows only 35-foot high structures. To get that tower there, you would need to get a waiver from the Zoning Board of Appeals," Rogers added.

Mayor Sorenson pointed out that city officials did not know the tower was being constructed until it was half-way up. Safety chief Lynch said his office will check to determine which officials should have applied for the permit and height waiver and discuss the matter with them.

President To Get Jeweled Emblem

Dr. Clifford M. Hardin, Chancellor of the University of Nebraska, will be the principal speaker at a Nebraska College and University dinner at the University of Omaha Thursday, October 14.

The dinner will mark the beginning of the program of inauguration events for Dr. Leland Eldridge Traywick as eighth president of the University of Omaha. The dinner will also honor those engaged in higher education in Nebraska and many civic and governmental leaders, who have long supported such activities.

The dinner will be at 6:45 p.m. in the ballroom of the Milo Bail Student Center. Approximately 200 people are expected to attend.

The formal inaugural ceremonies will be Friday, October 15, at 2 p.m. in the University Stadium. This will be followed by a reception in the Student Center Ballroom. The public is invited.

Official delegates to the inaugural will register at 10 a.m. Friday (October 15) in the Gene Eppley Library. They will be Traywick . . . invested honored at a luncheon at 11:45 a.m. Friday.

During the Inaugural Convocation, President Traywick will be invested by the Regents with a new emblem symbolic of the office of the Presidency of the University of Omaha. This, the Seal of the President, will be worn at Commencement and other official academic functions.

The silver-gilt emblem is four and one-half inches in diameter, mounted with three garnets and two baroque pearls. In the center is the official seal executed in sterling silver and red enamel. It is suspended from an intricately chased court necklet and chape of the Napoleonic era, also of silver-gilt, set with twenty-four garnets, thirty-two turquoises and four baroque pearls. On the reverse of the necklet panels are engraved the names of the former presidents of the University with space for future additions. Engraved on the reverse of the emblem itself is the following inscription:

"Presented to the University by the faculties upon the occasion of the inauguration of Leland E. Traywick, October 15, 1965."

Application Deadline Nears For Grants

October 22 is the deadline for filing applications for U.S. government grants for graduate study or research abroad under the Fulbright-Hays Act.

Application forms and information are available from Dr. George Helling. Applicants must be US citizens who will hold a bachelor's degree or its equivalent by the beginning date of the grant. They must also have language proficiency sufficient to carry out the proposed projects.

Although students from the finest universities in the country are making applications, Dr. Helling said that Omaha University students have been successful in the past. He said a student needs high grades, the language of the country he expects to do his work in, a project that really needs overseas experience for its success, and personal maturity.

Traywick Returns From D.C. Today

President Leland Traywick journeyed to Washington, D. C. Wednesday morning for a meeting of the American Council on Education.

Representatives of all colleges and universities in the United States attended.

The purpose of the national meet is to look after the interests of the "whole academic community." Dr. Traywick will return late this afternoon.

A Free Chuck Wagon Lunch Will Begin Homecoming Fun

Homecoming activities will begin with the dismissal of classes at 11:20 a.m., Friday, October 15. A free Chuck Wagon lunch will take place at 11:45 on the Women's P.E. Field. There has been a charge for the lunch in years previous, but due to the inauguration of Dr. Traywick, there will be no charge.

The inauguration ceremonies will follow the Chuck Wagon and take place at 2 p.m. in the stadium, weather permitting. A tea in the Student Center Ballroom at 3:30 p.m. honoring Dr. Traywick will follow the ceremonies.

The TGIH (Thank Goodness

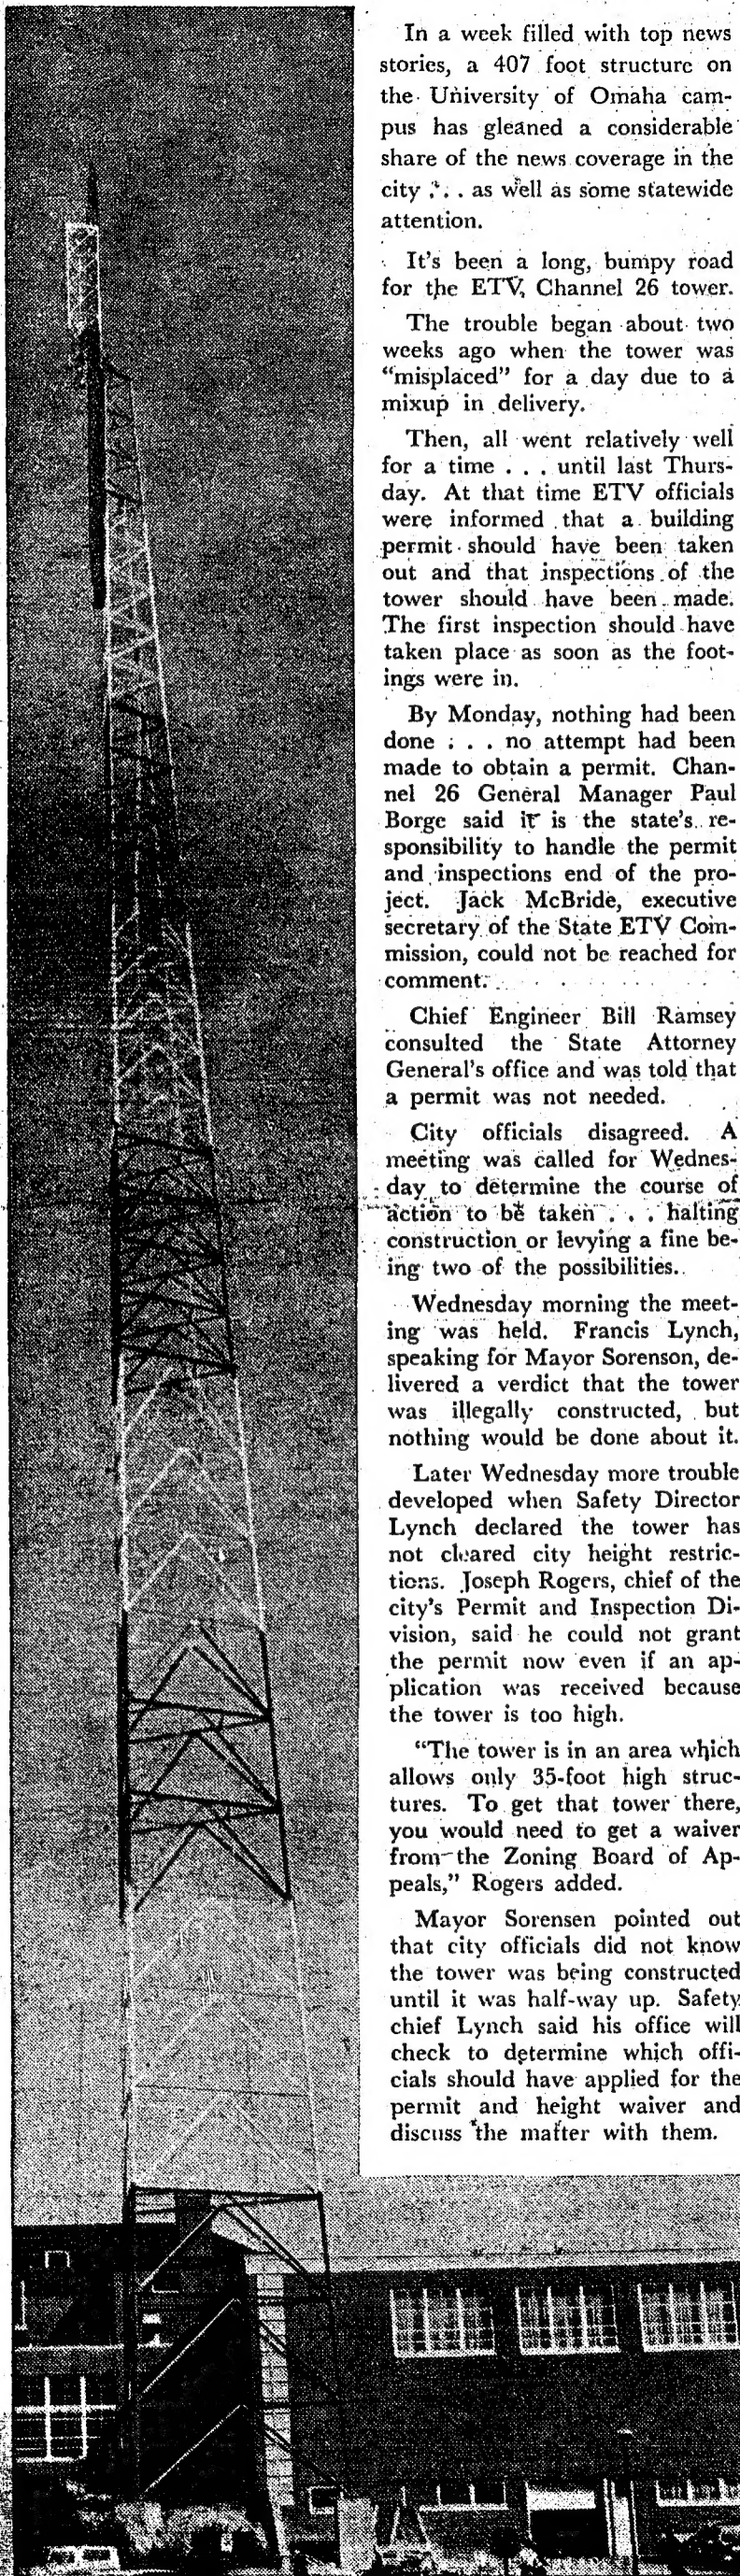

It's Homecoming) Dance will be held outside at 4 p.m. The Pep Rally and Bonfire will start at 5:30 p.m. and the crowning of the Homecoming Princess will take place at 6 p.m. in the Pep Bowl.

The Homecoming Dance will be held at Peony Park Ballroom starting at 9 p.m. The Eddy Haddad Orchestra will provide music until 11 p.m., when the Kingsmen will entertain until 12:30.

The game with Pittsburgh State will be played at 2 p.m. at the Stadium on Saturday, October 16.

Editorial Voice

Have you ever been in front of five thousand people hollering at the top of your voice and had most of the five thousand people just sit and look at you? Ask the cheerleaders what it's like . . . They know it's pretty embarrassing.

One more question . . . what is a common topic in Omaha University publications but receives little attention from the student body? Right . . . School spirit.

The cheerleaders must feel sort of silly leading all our "dedicated" students in cheers at an athletic contest. After spending three quarters on the sidelines of last Saturday's game, I found the teammates of the men on the field showed more enthusiasm than the fans in the stands.

The favorite argument is usually . . . too many people work or "that's bubble gum." There are plenty of students who don't work to give a boost to the men on the field that work hard every week to earn a name for "our school." And if you think it's bubble gum . . . take in a Nebraska University game someday. So they have a nationally ranked team. This year's OU squad will stay with the best of teams coming from schools of comparable size.

So let's all go out Saturday night and give a few rah rahs, and all that good stuff . . . You won't get committed . . . in fact let's really burden ourselves this week. We'll all learn the words to the "school song" just for kicks. I've learned the first line and this is my third year here. But I'm doing better than most.

Cheerleader reaction to spectator apathy. They can smile . . . in fact, they're supposed to. Let's see what our cheers can do to brighten their faces.

Two Retailers Finance Study

Brandeis and Hinky Dinky will each award four scholarships this year to Business Administration Students at Omaha University.

The Scholarships are valued at 250 dollars each, and the students receiving the scholarships will also be given part time jobs in the stores.

"The job helps the student learn more about his chosen vocation, and the scholarships and wages help him financially," said Dean John Lucas, head of the College of Business Administration.

Both companies began awarding the scholarships in 1957. The College of Business Administration faculty chooses the recipients each year. Students who now have the Brandeis Retailing Scholarships are Duane E. Buerstette, Donald L. Coy, Jr., and Michael Queery. The holder of one of the Hinky Dinky Food Distribution Scholarships is John E. Peters.

All students in the College of Business Administration may apply for the scholarships in Adm. 291.

ODK To Honor Pres.

Omicron Delta Kappa will hold a coffee hour in honor of Dr. Leland Traywick's inauguration on Saturday, October 16.

The senior men's honorary will host its fraternity brother as part of a homecoming reunion program. Dr. Traywick was a member at the University of Missouri.

Former OU Dr. Dies

Dr. Maine C. Andersen, 69, a longtime Omaha University physician died Sunday at a local hospital after a brief illness. Dr. Andersen served the University from 1942 until June 1960.

Gorman To Chicago

Dean Frank H. Gorman, dean of the College of Teacher Education, will be in Chicago October 11 and 12 for a meeting of the North Central Association, the accrediting association for colleges and universities in the area.

The Dean will be the chairman of a committee on teacher education in multipurpose institutions.

Mailbox

Dear Editor,

Does anyone have an extra bookdrop?

Something has happened to the one that used to be on the left side entrance of the Ouampi Room. That was last year. But now with the many new students, new freshmen, and new books, it's gone and just when we need it most!

Chairs and tables in the Ouampi Room are too scarce and valuable for holding books. The chairs are needed for holding people and the tables for food. Besides, books on tables usually end up with catsup or coffee on them. And books are too expensive for that.

One solution would be to check our books, but the check room just can't keep up with the supply of coats and books or the demands of students waiting to retrieve them and hurry to class.

Another solution would be to eat in the cafeteria or bowling alley, but that would just transfer the problem to another place.

If a student or school official could find another bookdrop for the Ouampi Room, I'm sure we students would appreciate it.

Sincerely,

Livi Bergman

Faculty Committees Remain; Duties Continuing The Same

"Faculty committees make the University go," said Dean George Rachford, head of graduate studies.

Dr. Rachford commented that the change in Omaha University presidents has not changed the University Standing Committees to any great extent.

Committees elect their own chairmen. Some committees, such as Student Activities, divide into sub-committees to handle special areas.

Dr. Rachford pointed out the flexibility of the committee system. "New committees can be added if the need arises. Usually committees meet at least monthly, but the amount of business to be covered may demand more frequent meetings," he said.

The eight University Standing Committees and their purposes are:

—Curriculum, which co-ordinates and approves the curriculum of each college. Dr. Charles Bull is chairman and Dr. Paul Stageman serves as secretary.

—Academic Standards reviews the academic standing of the student body each semester. Chairman is Dr. Paul Beck and secretary is Virgil Sharpe.

—Library committee makes policy and helps the librarian. Dr. A. Stanley Trickett serves as chairman and Miss Ellen Lord as secretary.

—Degrees with Departmental Distinction examines students with outstanding academic achievement in each college. This differs from college distinction, which is automatically granted to graduating students having attained very high grade point averages. Head of this committee is Dr. W. C. Lambert. Dr. Wayne Higley is secretary.

—Scholarships and Awards committee administers the various scholarship funds of the University, as well as handling awards. Dean Donald Pfisterer is chairman.

—Student Activities Programs is also headed by Dean Pfisterer. Twelve student representatives join the faculty members on this committee, which determines University policies regarding students. Sub-committees are the Student Center Program and Intramurals.

—Athletics is a policy setting committee headed by Dr. Paul Kennedy.

—Publications with Paul V. Peterson as its chairman sets the policy regarding student publications—the GATEWAY and the TOMAHAWK. Also on this committee are four student representatives.

"Bus Stop" cast prepares for October 21, 22, and 23 performances. Rehearsing for the production are: (l. to r.) Jack Gatewood, Bob Lane, Kris Waara, Jim Phillips and Barbara Kucera.

Does Boy or Girl Own Bass Voice?

With the advent of Beatle hairdos, medium high-heeled shoes and form fitting slacks for the males, Omaha University faculty members and students are finding it increasingly harder to tell the boys from the girls.

One faculty member who wants to remain anonymous told his class of seeing one of the Beatles strutting down these hallowed halls of OU. Since this was the first day of classes, he presumed that this young lady did not know that slacks for women were prohibited in the hallowed halls of this University. The instructor went up to the "young lady" to advise her of this rule. As he tapped the offender, the long-haired student turned around and said with a deep, husky voice, "Yes?" All this well meaning teacher could do was say an embarrassed "Hi" and scurry back to his ivory tower.

A well meaning OU coed saw what she theorized to be another coed who seemed to be confused sitting at the front of a classroom and thoughtfully started a conversation with a reference to the monsoon season of Nebraska. And when this "coed" said in a pseudo-masculine voice that it wasn't much, she went to the back of the room to sit with members of her own sex.

Geographic Group Slates Initial Meet

Gamma Theta Upsilon, national honorary society for geography students, will hold its first meeting this afternoon.

The meeting will be held in dining rooms A and B of the Milo Bail Student Center at 5:30.

Michael Hill, senior undergraduate geography major and president of Gamma Theta Upsilon, will give a brief and informal report on his summer field trip work in Colorado.

All prospective members and guests are welcome.

Only one more day . . . and it's GATEWAY football night.

See page 5 for details.

Cram Seats In Adm. 389

Have those of you who have classes in Room 389 of the Adm. ever felt like guinea pigs?

If you haven't . . . just wait.

For those of you who DON'T have classes in the above mentioned room, Room 389 is the one with carpeting.

Sound pretty plush? It may be . . . for now.

However, one fine Monday morning students who have classes in that room may be in for a surprise.

That room has been selected for the "Great Experiment" in pedestal-seating. The great American collegiate pastime of telephone booth cramming seems to be giving way to classroom cramming.

The installation of the space-saving seating was originally slated for this weekend . . . however, cooler heads prevailed. Some quick estimates indicated that the installation couldn't be done in a weekend.

Therefore, the project has been postponed . . . possibly until Christmas vacation.

A final word to the guinea pigs:

Enjoy the WIDE OPEN SPACES while you can.

Young Democrats Set Officer Election Date

The Young Democrats of Omaha University held the first meeting of the year Tuesday night in the Milo Bail Student Center.

After the introductory program which featured Dr. Paul Beck of the history department outlining the plans for the coming year, the Young Democrats broke into various committees.

The next meeting will be October 18. Election of officers will be held at this time.

Dr. David C. Scott is the new head of the political science department.

Dr. Scott comes to Omaha University from Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, Ill. where he taught last year. He has also taught at the University of Iowa for two years, and at Southwest Missouri State College under Dr. Leland Traywick for 16 years.

Well versed in all areas of politics, Dr. Scott was a city councilman and mayor of Springfield, Mo. for four years. He also lists politics as one of his favorite hobbies along with all spectator sports.

When asked what he thought of coming to OU, Dr. Scott replied, "It's kind of nice to come back to work for President Traywick."

Part-time Jobs Up For Grabs

Do you need a job?

A job? How can I work and go to school, too?

That's a good question. Many students do, however, work and study and if you want to join them, the Placement Office is the place to go.

Have you ever wanted to be a counselor for the YWCA or the YMCA?

Have you ever had the urge to be a school bus driver, or a hospital orderly, or a parking lot attendant?

How about trying your hand at being a theater doorman, or some form of clerical job?

These and many other part-time jobs are available, all you have to do is visit Adm. 231.

Educators To Aid Teachers

Educators, working with the College of Teacher Education in training teachers, attend university functions to discuss their problems and to work out training programs.

The faculty of the elementary education department and student teachers in elementary education will host a tea for the administrators, principals and teachers from cooperating schools from Omaha, Council Bluffs, Bellevue and District 66, for Dr. Leland Traywick and the deans of the colleges.

Dr. Traywick and Dean Frank Gorman, dean of the College of Teacher Education, will address the assembly of 250 in the Student Center Ballroom, Wednesday, October 27.

The cooperating teachers in the secondary student teaching program met with the University's secondary student teachers' advisers in the Student Center Ballroom last Saturday.

The Nebraska Association of Student Teaching would like to make this program for cooperating teachers state-wide, according to Dr. Paul C. Kennedy, head of the secondary education department.

The University also offers a cooperating teachers' seminar designed for cooperating teachers in the elementary schools. Teachers invited to join the seminar can earn three hours of graduate credit. About 25 people are taking part in this seminar.

Last Wednesday, over 20 representatives from nearby colleges, universities, and public and parochial schools met to discuss problems of teacher education, and the relations between teacher training institutions and cooperating schools.

Briscoe Deals Aces

Mid-Game Change Lifts Indians To 21-6 Victory

by Mike Moran

Omaha University's junior quarterback, Marlin Briscoe, a harried signal caller the first thirty minutes, took charge in the second half and led the Indians to a 21-6 win over Morningside last Saturday before 5,000 fans at OU Stadium.

Playing in 75 degree weather, the Indians limped through a first half that saw Morningside score once on a 46 yard run by halfback Gary Beaubien.

Two Omaha drives were foiled on fourth down within the 15 as the Indian offense sputtered and coughed during the early going.

Two Games?

After intermission, the story changed themes rapidly as Omaha took complete command with style. Briscoe, suddenly daring as a riverboat gambler, wheeled and dealed the Red and Black 83 yards to paydirt in four minutes of the third stanza.

Marlin followed Harlan Aden to his right for a three yard scoring jaunt for the tally that tied it at 6-6. George Blankenship's placement gave OU a lead it never lost.

A pass interference call and a 30 yard sprint by halfback Gerry Allen set up Briscoe's touchdown. Moments later the Indians were back for more. Briscoe's bullet to flanker Rick Davis was good for 40 yards and a first and goal from the eight. Two plays later, Bill Dodd hammered his way into the end zone for the second Omaha touchdown. Blankenship was accurate again from placement and the scoreboard blinked 14-7 as the third quarter ended.

OU's tough-as-nails defense got the ball back again and Marlin wasted no time in registering another six points. A nifty fake to Dodd and one quick pump of Briscoe's right arm found Davis alone in the flat at the Morning-side 35. Ricky cut to his left and outran two Chief defenders the rest of the way for a 63 yard scoring jaunt with ten minutes remaining to play. Again, Blankenship's toe was good and 21 points flashed on the OU board.

Big Change

Omaha's pro-set offense hurtled into second gear during the decisive second half and the statistics prove it. Briscoe completed 11 of 20 tosses for 195 yards. Little All-American Allen didn't tarnish his reputation with 128 yards on 25 carries in a work-horse performance.

The real key lay in the ability of the OU defense to recover from a first half lashing that saw the Chiefs rack up 135 yards on the ground.

The Indian secondary held up expertly and turned back a minimal Morningside air threat. Interceptions by Don Crum and Lew Garrison stymied threats in the second half.

Old Stuff

The win gives OU a 13-12 lead in the oldest series in Omaha history. The two teams first met in 1935. Morningside is now 1-2 on the season. Omaha is 2-1 and must begin the long grind that includes Bradley, Eastern New Mexico and Drake in addition to OIC rivals.

Here Comes Caress

Rebounding Braves Bring Varied Attack For Night Encounter Against Indians

by Leo Meidlinger

With an expected crowd of 10-thousand fans on hand for GATEWAY FOOTBALL NIGHT, a young tribe of Bradley Braves invades Rosenblatt Stadium Saturday evening at 7:30 for an encounter with tough-minded Omaha U.

Both teams, the Braves, under the direction of veteran quarterback Bob Caress, and the Indians have put "key-clash" labels on the tilt.

The Indians, 2 and 1 now after last Saturday's 21 to 6 win over Morningside, "must" win this one to keep alive their chances for national ratings.

Braves Rebounding

The Braves, meanwhile, also consider this a "must" game with their record now 1 and 2. The Peoria, Illinois, club lost its first two games by narrow margins—

14 to 13 to Evansville—a try for a two-point conversion failed—and 19 to 15 to Northern Michigan, ranked among the top-ten small college teams in the nation.

Bradley rebounded last week with a 14 to 6 triumph over Western Illinois with Caress and junior end Hal Montville combining for both Braves touchdowns.

Caress was second in the nation last year in total yardage among small college passers with better than a 50 percent completion rate. In his three years in heading up the Braves offensive attack he's passed for 40 touchdowns and 4,948 yards, a 12.3 yards per completion average.

Montville Surprises

Montville is the "find" of this year's Bradley club. A 6-foot, 185-pounder, he played very little his first two years. Both his touchdown passes last week covered 17 yards and he's described by OU assistant coach Carl Meyers—who scouted last week's game—as having a good pair of hands with flashy speed.

What To Expect???

OU head coach Al Caniglia warns that the Braves have always thrown heavily against the Indians, but it makes one wonder what kind of an attack Caress and company will throw up Saturday night, after seeing last week's game statistics. The classy quarterback struck through the air only 13 times and played ball control most of the second half after the Peorians had built up their eight-point lead.

On the ground the Braves sport Mike Dafferner, a 5-9, 160-pound junior as their main running threat.

Another Surprise—Defense

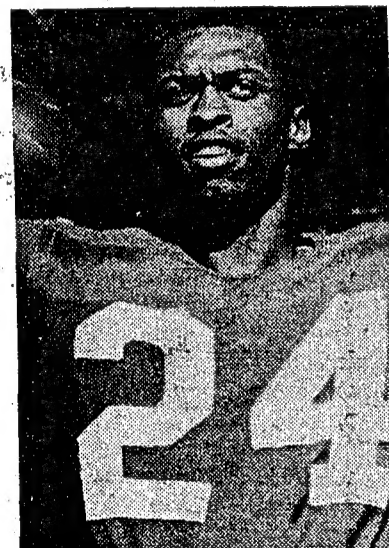

The Braves, usually noted for their fine offensive attack, thanks to head coach Billy Stone, have come up with a tighter defense from what the Indians have seen the last two years. The Caniglia-coached-clubs have taken 47 to 26 and 29-28 decisions from Bradley in the last two years.

Gerry Rapplean, a freshman middle linebacker at 6-feet and 190 pounds, and senior left tackle Bill Wessels, a 6-1-215-pounder, stuck out in the mind of scout Meyers as top defensive performers.

Another top defender is safetyman Terry Celba. Celba intercepted ten passes in ten games for the Braves last year and has been ballyhooed as an excellent one-on-one defender.

Indians 21-16

The list is impressive, but it looks like OU's experience, plus its bulky forward wall will prevail 21 to 16.

Defensive safety Lew Garrison is the Center Bank's PLAYER OF THE WEEK. The Tech High grad intercepted a Morningside pass and made many key tackles during Saturday's 21 to 6 win over the Chiefs. He is now eligible for the PLAYER OF THE YEAR AWARD to be presented at the end of the season.

Indians Take Initial CC Meet From Simpson

Omaha University's cross-country team got off to a good start Tuesday afternoon with a 1965 opening meet 16 to 44 (low score wins) victory over Simpson College of Indianola, Iowa.

Senior Ken Gould led the way for the Indians, who took five out of the first six places. Gould covered the shortened three-mile Elmwood Park course in 16:04.9. Junior Gerald Shook was pressed heavily for runner-up honors by freshman Jim Beraldi. Shook's 17:46 was a second better than Beraldi's third-place time.

The Indians travel to Peru State this afternoon for their second meet of the year, also over

Summer Workers: Seek Jobs Early

Mrs. Yvonne Harsh, student placement director, says summer jobs are tight, even critical, and advises students to seek employment early in the year.

Mrs. Harsh says employers are just not hiring summer help as much as they used to. This has been due mainly to automation. She says students just out of high school find it most difficult to secure work.

Due to these cramped conditions, Mrs. Harsh advises students to start looking for jobs in the first part of April and in January for summer camp work. The Park Department takes applications from the middle of March to the middle of April. Any later and the seeker may be out of work; most summer jobs are filled by the time school has let out.

There is a publication out which will help the student find work. "Summer Employment Directory" may be purchased at any bookstore at four dollars a copy. It is published in December of each year and lists jobs by states for the following summer.

This publication also tells the applicant how to write a good letter of application. Subscriptions may be sent to: The National Directory Service, Box 32065, Cincinnati, O.

Europe's Issues Told By London Newsman

Twenty years has brought many changes in the format of the World Affairs lectures.

The series has grown from small groups gathered at a dinner table to a near capacity filled auditorium, as evidenced by Tuesday evening's talk by William Stringer.

Opening the 1965 series, Stringer, the London Bureau Chief of the Christian Science Monitor spoke on "Europe's Changing Pattern."

Issues that the 30-year Monitor veteran felt concerned Britain and Western Europe were discussed as follows: the Europeans' wish that the United States would pay more attention to European policies, the possibility of having a United States of Western Europe, and how Germany is fitted into the fabric of Western Europe.

Parallels

He also discussed the relationship of Germany, Western Europe and the United States with the Soviet Union. Pointed out in this part of the talk was the parallels that have been discovered between the countries, specifically the Kashmir dispute when all were found to be on the same side in trying to obtain a cease fire.

The fifth item discussed was whether or not Britain does or does not have a special relationship with the United States. Stringer disagreed with Prime Minister Harold Wilson who said that "Never in peace time had the United States and Great Britain been closer together in their policies."

He also discussed Europe's relationship to underdeveloped areas and he said that some influence was gained by foreign aid.

Continuation

Stringer thought that Britain, in the future, could either lean toward the idea of being neutral like Switzerland or to continue to be a world power.

Stringer made a few predictions as to the future of Western Europe. He thought that there would be a very effective Britain in the future; he doubted that De Gaulle would succeed in pulling France out of NATO; he thought that a committee should be set up to determine the nuclear strategy used in Western Europe and that there would be more parallels soon to be seen between the Soviet Union and Western Europe.

Next Talk

The GATEWAY learned late Thursday afternoon that Teodoro Moscoso, originally scheduled as Monday's second World Affairs speaker, will be unable to appear.

Instead, the man who has written what is considered the best book about Charles De Gaulle will speak. He is David Schoenbrun and he has just returned from Paris and talks with the French general.

Mr. Schoenbrun will speak at 8:15 p.m. Monday in the University auditorium.

Views From The Pole

By Debbie Pelowski

Sitting, conspicuously alone in the Ouampi Room, I was slipping coffee between my glasses. This, being a conspicuous thing in itself, there soon gathered a crowd of curious watchers around my table. I explained that the idea is to pour the hot liquid down behind the rims, being careful to miss the eyes, while streaming miraculously down the nose to its eventual destination, the mouth. It takes a great deal of practice, but once mastered, there's a vast improvement in the taste. And, if you are swift enough to catch the drippings in the cup, you can start all over.

This type of activity, being naturally conducive to serious square table discussions, the messy-faced group commenced to debate life and love and other controversial issues. Of course, the conversation eventually led to the inevitable subject of F.D.R.'s New Deal, whereupon, one eager participant moved his chair dramatically away from the table, and, rising with the protrusion of arm and finger, shouted profoundly, "Don't burn your chickens before their crossed!" The group nodded solemnly in agreement. I, myself, didn't feel that this bit of philosophy was particularly applicable.

It is my opinion that a timeless truism such as this, although appropriate in many instances, should be held in sacred esteem. That is, a person ought not to go around spouting old sayings, unless the saying absolutely fits the occasion at hand. For example, a burly bootstrapper, who is attracted to the shapely limbs of Betty Coed, might unthinkingly say, "You know, honey, every rainbow has a pot." Now, this shows no finesse, and, naturally the gorgeous coed will feel downcast and offended. The reaction will be more encouraging if the boot goes about it in this manner. He sidles steadfastly up behind Betty, taps her gently on the shoulder with thumb and forefinger, and with a grovel in the throat, whispers, "A bird in the bush is worth flocking together." And, if the burly boot is fast enough, he'll run before she turns around, adding an element of suspense. Which only goes to show that "Two heads are always better on the other side of the fence."

All of us have a poem buried deep with the soul, and I am no exception. It seems only fitting and proper at this time, to expound poetically upon OU's new TV tower, from the top of which I perilously perch. Ah, tower, tower, beautiful tower, Matched only by the beauty of a flower; I thought you were a Jungle Gym Placed here for childish whim.

Ah, hunk of structural magnificence Heed not the careless winds which pound; This column is pure evidence It should be written on the ground.

Student Body Largest Ever

An increase of 674 students this fall at the University of Omaha has set a new enrollment record, announced Registrar Virgil Sharpe.

The 9,082 total enrollment is the most ever, he said. There are 4,579 full-time students and 4,503 part-time, (less than 12 hours).

Freshman enrollment is 2,823 this year as compared to 2,341 in September 1964.

Men outnumber women more than two to one with 6,170 males enrolled and only 2,912 females. There are 5,820 resident students and 3,262 non-residents attending classes.

Psych Dept. To Arrange Talks

A series of colloquiums with guest speakers will be held by the Psychology Department for graduate students and faculty members.

These sessions provide opportunities to discuss technical sides of psychology primarily scientific in nature. The time is non-credit which encourages free and extensive discussion of ideas and information.

Dr. Wolfensberger of Nebraska Psychiatric Institute will lecture on child retardation at the first meeting held Oct. 7. Stephen Chatfield and Douglas Brown, Omaha U. graduate students, present plans for thesis work on Oct. 28. Dr. Ingham, Assistant Professor of Biology, at Omaha U. on insect behavior Nov. 11. Arrangements are being made for guest lecturers at the remaining two sessions on Dec. 2 and Jan. 13.

Additional Math Curriculum New at Omaha University

Two new courses are being offered this semester to those students interested in math. The courses are advanced programming techniques and probability and statistics.

Advanced Programming Techniques covers the major areas of programming in the US, such as learning theory, numerical methods and simulation techniques. Prerequisites for the course are calculus and computer programming. The class is being offered for one semester only and has a current enrollment of 15 students.

Probability And Statistics explores discrete sample spaces involving problems where the number of possibilities to the outcome are limited. Topics covered in the class are statistical inference, point estimation and others. Prerequisites for the class are calculus and junior standing. It would be of major interest to math majors and those entering the fields of engineering, physics and psychology. Current enrollment is about 50 students. The course will be offered in two semesters.

Previous courses in Probability have been offered at OU. These courses required only high school algebra and dealt with the problem of infinite or unlimited sample spaces.

Both new courses are being taught by Associate Professor William Walden. Mr. Walden is beginning his second year at OU, having received his Ph.D. from New Mexico State University in 1964.

Eppey Library Holds Over 1500 Magazines

Nearly 15 hundred different periodicals are available at the Gene Eppey Library, said Miss Ellen Lord, head librarian.

Approximately one fifth of the library's annual budget is spent on the acquisition of magazines, she said. Last year, one fourth of all library usage was claimed by the periodical room, she added.

Workman Hurt Aloft

OU's new television tower was the scene of a construction accident Sunday.

Don Parker, a construction worker, sustained injuries to his left hand when it became entangled in a pulley holding part of the tower aloft.

Due to Parker's injured hand it was necessary to lower him to the ground by means of a bosun's chair from 275 feet.

Prof Does Reviews

Dr. James B. Peterson, head of the Omaha University Music Department, took on the added position of music critic for the Omaha World-Herald over the summer.

Council Names Tompsett Prexy

Omaha University senior Rich Tompsett will be installed as president of the Inter Omaha Collegiate Council October 17.

The council is composed of two members from each of the college and universities plus the nursing schools of Omaha.

The council was started last year by four Omaha area college seniors because there was a lack of communication among the college students.

Tompsett said that all students interested in representing OU at the council should turn their names in to Mrs. Arlene Stanley no later than October 17. At a later meeting the Student Council will vote on OU's second representative.

Tompsett said that plans for the year include a fund raising affair such as a dance. This would put money in the treasury plus having funds to begin a civic improvement project.

The civic improvement project would acquaint the city with the students and give them a good image.

Retail Club to Meet

The Retail Management Club will meet next Wednesday from 11:30 a.m. to 12:20 p.m. in alcove B in the Bail Student Center. The purpose of this meeting is to elect officers and to plan the year's activities. Club members and full time business administration students not on probation are invited.

Foreigners Flavor Classes

Although their specialty isn't foreign cooking, two Home Economics majors are lending a foreign flavor to their classes.

Sarah Lynne Liang of China and Molook Tina Bidari of Iran are beginning their first semester at the University of Omaha.

Sarah, 22, and the daughter of a Presbyterian minister, transferred to the University from Morningside College. She speaks four languages fluently with good reason. At the age of four, she and the members of her family fled the Communists in their move to take over Manchuria in 1948. "We took nothing with us but the clothes on our backs," she said in recalling the flight. "We went to Formosa, where my father took care of a Presbyterian Church on Taiwan and also taught in a high school seminary." Four years later, the family moved to Japan where Sarah, whose Chinese name is Sui Ming, was renamed by American missionaries.

In 1960, her father received a with. "I had grown up with my native dialect," she explained, "Then I learned Formosan, Japanese and finally, English!"

A six-year course in English during high school gave Molook a head start when she and her husband came to the United States a year ago for additional schooling. A freshman specializing in Dietetics, Molook, 25, hopes to obtain a degree for a career to complement her husband's. He is currently a resident physician at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine.

"I like to study and hope I can continue to for four years," Molook explained, "With a degree I can get a job and work in a hospital with my husband."

Noting the contrasts between the American woman and the woman of Iran, Molook observed, "American women have more freedom to work outside the home and they are able to help their husbands more. The educated women take a job in Iran, but there are not enough facilities for all women to get out and work. Most are just housewives."

Checking into their home economics background, both girls excel in sewing, but declare exotic cooking is not in their line. Molook remarked that the foods she prepared in Iran are "Almost the same as in America." Sarah, whose mother handles the culinary arts at home, added, "That's what worries me about Meal Planning classes, I'm going to have to cook!" She is a junior.

Matson, Owens Take '65 Typical Twosome

Toni Matson, Chi Omega, and Randy Owens, Lambda Chi Alpha, were named the two Typical Freshmen Wednesday.

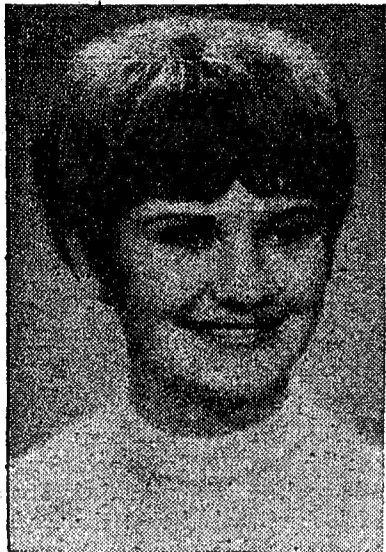

They were chosen by a vote of the freshman class. Any freshman carrying 12 or more hours was eligible to vote from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. in the BSC.

The announcement of the election winners was made at 5 p.m. at the Typical Freshman dance held in the BSC Ballroom.

Toni, the Typical Freshman Girl, is a 1965 Benson graduate. In high school she was named Homecoming Queen, and was a four-year cheerleader and captain of the squad. She also served as secretary of the Student Council. A home economics major, Toni was recently chosen for Ipinnaues, OU's cheering squad.

Randy is also a 1965 Benson graduate. In high school he was president of the O-Club, and was in the top one percent of his class. A pre-med major, Randy is attending Omaha University on a Regents Scholarship. He has been elected social chairman of his pledge class.

Toni and Randy . . . Typical Two.

Waakiya Not Mum About Mum Sale

Waakiya, senior women's honorary, will sell Mums in the Student Center for the Homecoming Game. Orders will be taken the week of Oct. 11-15. The price is $1.00 per Mum.

Patti Matson, Vice President of Waakiya, is in charge of sales and promotion for the annual event.

The Greek Grind

The Pledge class of Lambda Chi Alpha has announced their new officers for 1965.

They are: Rod Ulfers, President; Doug Pfenninger, Vice-President; Rich Eastman, Secretary; and Don Darling, Treasurer.

Completing the list is Randy Owens, social chairman.

Elmwood Park was the scene of Alpha Xi Delta's annual Mother-Daughter Picnic, this year.

Mothers of Alpha Xi members met with the sorority to become better acquainted with the goals and the functions of the group.

Chi Omega pledged Janet Knudson in open bidding.
